

Drew Morton

MUSIC

Music for schools

'New Worlds' –a song for World Book Day (March 3rd)

Primary KS 2

A strong rhythmic pulse and a haunting melody has meant that this has been a real hit with all the groups learning it. Two local primary school children (Evie, 8, and Rufus, 5) helped with some ideas for the lyrics.

It can either be sung unaccompanied or with a light piano or guitar support. Scored for upper voices (unison) and piano with guitar chords

Piano backing track available.

Lyrics:

*Worlds of wonder,
Words to ponder
As you turn the pages.
Joys and sorrows,
New tomorrows,
Tales told by Sages.*

*Let the magic hold,
Let your mind unfold
In ev'ry way.
Pictures, prose or rhyme,
Thrilling ev'ry time, and so....*

*Read the story,
Feel the glory*

*Tight against your heart.
Hear the sound of your next journey
Waiting, ready to depart.*

*Diff'rent worlds in one,
Excitement's just begun
And here to stay.
Look inside your mind.
See what you can find in there....*

*Read the story,
Feel the glory
Tight against your heart.
Hear the sound of your next journey
Waiting, ready to depart*

Andrew E. Morton
Rufia Hixon
Eric Williams

New Worlds

A song for World Book Day

Andrew E. Morton

$\text{♩} = 110$

Soprano

Worlds of wonder,

S.

went to ponder as you turn the page.

S.

Joys and sorrows, now to morrows, tales told by